What this note is: a single shortcut, on its own, so you can save it, print it and use it in seconds. Copy the prompt on page 2 into ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini, Muse or any other AI chat, choose a topic, and your daily speaking practice starts. Ten minutes a day improves speaking faster than memorising grammar rules.

The copy-and-paste prompt

English Speaking Partner Works in: ChatGPT - Claude - Gemini - Muse

> Be my English speaking partner. Start a simple conversation about [TOPIC]. Follow these rules strictly:
> 1. Ask me ONE short question at a time and wait for my answer before asking the next.
> 2. Keep your questions short and use simple, everyday English for [CLASS / LEVEL].
> 3. After each of my answers, gently correct my mistakes: show my sentence, then show the correct sentence, and explain the mistake in one simple line.
> 4. If my answer is correct, say so briefly and continue the conversation - do not stop to give a long lesson.
> 5. If I write a very short answer like "yes" or "fine", ask me a follow-up question so I practise longer sentences.
> 6. Teach me ONE useful new word or phrase from our topic in each round, with its meaning in simple English.
> 7. After 10 rounds, give me a short summary: my 3 most common mistakes, 3 new words I learned, and one topic to practise tomorrow.
> Start with question 1 now. If you can use voice, speak slowly and clearly.

Fill the brackets: replace [TOPIC] with something easy to talk about, for example "my school day", "my favourite food" or "my village", and [CLASS / LEVEL] with your class, for example "Class 6" or "beginner".

How a speaking session runs

1. Paste the prompt into any AI chat and press send. The AI asks question 1 - nothing else.
2. Answer in English, out loud if you can. Type it or use the microphone. Short, simple sentences are fine at the start.
3. Read the correction carefully. Compare your sentence with the correct sentence. That difference is the lesson.
4. Say the correct sentence once. Repeating it aloud fixes it in your memory far better than only reading it.
5. Keep the conversation going. Answer the next question and try to use the new word you just learned.
6. Finish all 10 rounds. At the end you get your common mistakes, your new words, and a topic for tomorrow.

> Why one question at a time matters: speaking is a back-and-forth skill. If the AI writes a long paragraph, you only read it. Answering, making a small mistake, and fixing it straight away is how real conversation - and real fluency - is built.

What it looks like in practice

Topic: my school day, Class 6. This is the back-and-forth you will see:

AI: Hello! Let us talk about your school day. What time do you go to school?

You: I go to school at seven clock and I am going by foot.

AI: Good try. Small correction: you wrote "at seven clock" and "I am going by foot". The correct sentence is: "I go to school at seven o'clock, on foot." We say "o'clock" after the time, and "on foot" - not "by foot". New word: on foot - walking, not by bus or car. Question 2: What is your favourite subject at school?

You: My favourite subject is English because I want to speak it well.

AI: That sentence is correct - well done. Question 3: ...

Make it easier, harder or more useful

Add one of these short lines under the main prompt to change the practice:

Add this line	What changes
Keep everything very easy - I am a complete beginner.	Shorter questions, slower pace, more help with basic words.
Make the conversation harder and use longer questions.	For confident speakers who want a real challenge.
Correct only my big mistakes, not every small mistake.	Keeps you talking without stopping after every sentence.
Let us practise for an interview about [myself / my studies].	Practises the questions you will face in a real interview.
Explain my mistakes in Urdu, but keep the conversation in English.	Helps if you think in Urdu but want to speak in English.

Use it honestly. Speaking only improves if the English comes from you first. Typing your answers in Urdu and asking the AI to translate them gives you a conversation you did not really have.

Check the AI too. AI corrections are usually right, but not always. If a correction surprises you, check that point in your textbook or ask your teacher - your teacher is the final authority for your exam.
