Grammar Doctor

One copy-and-paste prompt that turns any AI chat into a gentle grammar teacher - it corrects your English sentence, explains each mistake in simple words, and gives you one practice sentence so you learn the rule, not just the answer.

Notes by Shah Fahad

AI & Technology Innovator and Educator - Buner, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Pakistan

Free student notes - Writing & English set

What this note is: a single shortcut, on its own, so you can save it, print it and use it in seconds. Copy the prompt on page 2 into ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini, Muse or any other AI chat, then send one sentence at a time and get a corrected version with a simple explanation.

The copy-and-paste prompt

Grammar Doctor Works in: ChatGPT - Claude - Gemini - Muse

> You are my gentle English grammar teacher. I will send you ONE sentence at a time. For each sentence, do exactly this:
> 1. Show the corrected sentence first.
> 2. Under it, list each mistake, and explain it in one short, simple line I can understand.
> 3. Keep my meaning and my own words - only fix grammar. Do not rewrite the whole sentence in your own style.
> 4. If my sentence is already correct, say so kindly and tell me one way I could make it stronger.
> 5. End with ONE short practice sentence with the same grammar point left blank for me to fill, and wait for my answer before the next sentence.
> Start by asking me to send my first sentence.

How to use it: paste the prompt once, press send, then send your sentences one by one. You do not need to paste the prompt again in the same chat.

What changes, what stays the same

The Grammar Doctor changes	It never changes
Wrong verb tense - go, went, has gone	Your meaning - the message stays exactly yours
Subject-verb agreement - he goes, they go	Your own words and your personal style
Missing or wrong articles - a, an, the	Names, places and facts in your sentence
Word order, plurals and prepositions - in, on, at	The length - a short sentence stays short
Spelling and punctuation inside the sentence	Anything you did not send - it waits for you

Why one sentence at a time matters: a whole page of corrections is too much to learn from - you read it and forget it. One sentence, one or two mistakes, one simple explanation: that is the size your memory can actually keep.

A worked example - three common mistakes

This is the kind of reply you will see. Read the explanation, not just the correction - the explanation is the lesson.

Mistake 1 - verb tense

You: Yesterday I go to the market with my brother.

Grammar Doctor: Corrected: Yesterday I went to the market with my brother.

Mistake: "Yesterday" tells us the action is finished, so use the past form - go becomes went.

Your turn: Last week we _____ to our village. (go)

Mistake 2 - subject-verb agreement

You: She don't like cricket.

Grammar Doctor: Corrected: She doesn't like cricket.

Mistake: With he, she or it, use doesn't - not don't. We say "they don't", but "she doesn't".

Your turn: He _____ like mangoes. (do not)

Mistake 3 - missing article

You: I saw elephant at the zoo.

Grammar Doctor: Corrected: I saw an elephant at the zoo.

Mistake: Elephant begins with a vowel sound, so it needs "an" before it - an elephant, an apple, an hour.

Your turn: She is eating _____ orange. (a or an?)

Three ways to use it

1. Daily sentences. Write 3 to 5 sentences about your day - your school, your family, your village - and send them one by one. Real sentences from your own life are the best practice, because you will use those words again.
2. Homework checking. Write your homework in your notebook first, in your own words. Then send the sentences to the Grammar Doctor and compare. Where your version and the correction differ, read the explanation and note the rule down.
3. Exam sentence practice. Before a test, practise the sentence types your exam loves: past tense narration, reported speech, and sentences with articles. Add this line under the prompt: "Only practise sentences about [TOPIC] at [CLASS] level."

Make it easier, harder or in Urdu

Add one of these short lines under the main prompt to change how the Grammar Doctor teaches:

Add this line	What changes
Explain every mistake in Urdu as well as English.	Best when an English explanation feels too hard to follow.
Keep your explanations very simple - I am in primary class.	Shorter words, shorter lines, kinder practice sentences.
Also show me the grammar rule name, like "past tense".	Useful for exam revision, when rules have names.
Give me 5 practice sentences at the end, not one.	A longer drill once you understand the rule.

Use it honestly. The Grammar Doctor is for learning from your own sentences. Write the sentence yourself first, then let it correct you. If the AI writes your homework from the start, the marks may come - but the English will not.

Check surprises. AI corrections are usually right, but not always. If a correction changes your meaning or feels wrong, ask "Why is this correct?" or check your grammar book - your book is the final authority for your exam.

More shortcuts in this set: Correct My English - Vocabulary Builder - Essay Outline Builder - Letter and Application Writer - and many more free notes on the website.